Rabies Quarantine In Ulster County

Notice of Certification Means That Control Measures Will Be Put Into Force

A rabies quarantine has been officially declared in Ulster County by State Commissioner of Health Dr. Herman F. Hilleboe, according to a certification letter received here yesterday by Dr. George James, Ulster County Commissioner of Health.

The quarantine is based on the definite diagnosis by the State Laboratory in Albany of rabies in a fox head found in the town of Wawarsing.

As the result of the state action dog owners will be required to have their dogs under control at times. Dogs will be permitted to run loose on their owner's property but at all other times must be under leash or control.

Dr. James announced that vaccination clinics in which dogs will be immunized against rabies will be held throughout the county, subject to approval by the Board of Supervisors, and notices as to the time and place of these clinics will be announced as soon as arrangements have been completed.

The certification letter received by Dr. George James, Ulster County Commissioner of Health, reads as follows:

13 Main Street
Kingston, New York.
Dear Dr. James:

In conformity with Section 25-a, Article III, of the Public Health Law, as amended by Chapter 183, Laws of 1947, I hereby certify that rabies exists in Ulster County.

A copy of the law is enclosed with instructions regarding control of rabies and official notice form.

Very truly yours,
HERMAN F. HILLEBOE, M.D.,

Leaps From Train To Take Examination

Yonkers, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—An 18-year-old youth leaped from a moving train today and suffered critical injuries from a 100-foot fall apparently because he wanted to take a college examination.

The youth, Robert L. Moore, of 62 Grand avenue, Poughkeepsie, was taken aboard another train to St. John's Riverside Hospital in Yonkers.

Moore regained consciousness in the hospital and said he leaped off a New York Central train at Tarrytown when he found it did not stop there. The engineer of another train saw him near the tracks, stopped his train, and conductors lifted him aboard.

Papers in his pocket indicated he was scheduled to take an examination during the day at Marymount College, Tarrytown.

Sign Contract

New York, July 10 (AP)—The New York Times and the C.I.O. Newspaper Guild of New York yesterday signed a new contract providing wage increases of 10 or more per cent for all employees covered by the agreement. Publisher Arthur Hays Sulzberger said the wage boosts, retroactive to the first payroll week in February, would cost the Times more than $1,000,000 annually.

Crash at Bearsville

Joseph Gordon of Phoenicia, driving a Buick sedan, and Joseph S. Freidinger of Woodstock, driving a Pontiac sedan, were involved in an accident near the I.O.O.F. hall at Bearsville last evening. Both vehicles were damaged. Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne made an investigation but both cars had been moved when he arrived. No injuries were reported.

Biggest General Farm Crop in History Forecast

Outlook Is for More and Cheaper Meat at Home; Big Grain Shipments Abroad

Washington, July 10 (AP)—Prospects of the biggest general farm crop in history today gave American housewives and diplomats alike reason for rejoicing.

The outlook is for more and cheaper meat at home—eventually—plus full scale grain shipments abroad, where food is a big factor in combating Communism.

A record corn crop of 3,328,862,000 bushels, nearly 41,000,000 above the previous top crop of 1946, was forecast by the Agricultural Department late yesterday. This is far above last year's total of only 2,400,000 bushels.

At the same time, the department predicted a wheat crop of 1,241,751,000 bushels, only some 123,000,000 bushels short of the record set last year.

In addition, excellent prospects were held out for most of the other crops to come off American farms.

The huge corn, wheat and other grain supplies will more than meet the needs of farmers who want step up feeding of cattle, hogs and other meat producers.

The excess will be available for shipments abroad and building up depleted stocks carried over from previous years.

On the other hand, the big feed supply outlook does not promise any immediate relief for farmers.

Holding off both hogs and cattle from slaughter while they are given extra rations of corn and other grains will keep the meat supply tight through this fall.

In addition, large numbers of hogs are expected to be held back for breeding purposes, further cutting the immediate supply.

With fewer animals on farms and consumer demand very strong, prices of most livestock products are at or near record levels. These should come down, however, when big supplies of meat begin reaching markets next year.

Wicks Spurs Republicans To Elect Entire '48 Ticket

Urges Putting Dewey in Washington to Deliver Nation From Chaos; Points to Progress Locally Under G.O.P. Economy

In welcoming delegates to the Ulster County Republican Convention this morning in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city, called upon them to bear down in their efforts to elect Governor Thomas E. Dewey to the presidency and also to work hard for G.O.P. victories in Ulster county.

The Senator, long-time representative of this area in the state legislature, and Ulster county leader of the Republican party since the death of Philip Elting, pointed to the economical administration of state and county affairs by his party, but not at the expense of progress, and said this is no time to be over confident.

The convention scheduled to open at noon was expected to nominate and recommend for public office this slate of candidates:

Member of Congress—Jay LeFevre of New Paltz.
State Senator—Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston.
Member of Assembly—John Wadlin, Highland.
County Clerk—Harry Sutton, Clintondale.
Coroner—Ernest A. Kelly, Kingston.
Presidential Elector—Fabian Russell, Saugerties.

Wadlin and Kelly are incumbents of the offices they seek again, and Harry Sutton for county clerk is the only new candidate.

Every indication was that Senator Wicks, a member of the state legislature for more than 20 years, would receive local recommendation for return to Albany, but his nomination depends on action taken in other counties of his district, Sullivan, Greene and Delaware.

Endorsement was seen forthcoming for LeFevre as congressman again, backing the action of the nominating committee last February in his congressional district made up of Ulster, Dutchess, Greene, Columbia and Schoharie counties.

Calling for the election of Dewey, he said "there is a need for a change in our national administration was so imperative. . . . The present Democratic national administration has proved its utter incapacity to solve the grave problems which we face."

Referring to the G.O.P. national ticket of Dewey for president and Governor Earl Warren of California as vice president, Senator Wicks remarked, "Both men are great Americans, great public administrators and great political leaders. They are fearless, honest and competent."

"With Republicans and Democrats predicting their overwhelming election, our only possible pitfall now is over-confidence."

Citing accomplishments in Ulster county under Republican administration, the Senator stressed the importance of electing this year's candidates to continue this year's work.

Reverend gentlemen of the clergy, other distinguished guests, delegates, and ladies and gentlemen:

It is a pleasure for me to welcome you here today. This convention is called for the transaction of official business but I welcome this opportunity to greet you all most warmly.

Real Democracy
This Republican county convention is democracy truly at work. You delegates have been selected by the enrolled Republican voters in your respective election districts for public office. We should be grateful to God that we live in a country where we may enjoy this year's privilege. We should again on this occasion pay homage to our heroes in our armed services who, throughout our nation's history, have fought and died so that we can live as free men and enjoy the privilege which we have exercised.

Under our American system it is appropriate that on occasions like this we should make a public accounting of our stewardship as a political party.

Under the able and dynamic leadership of our great governor, Tom Dewey, and with a Republican majority in both Houses of Congress, we have achieved a record of progress in the past few years. We have not accepted nomination.

Pickells Arrested at Milton, Now Face Auto Charge

New York, July 10 (Special)—An indictment was returned in United States District Court here Friday by a federal grand jury charging two boys with having transported a stolen auto from Egg Harbor, N. J., to Milton on June 12. They were arrested the following day at Milton by state police, when the car, which they were driving, skidded on a wet part of Highway 9W, overturned four or five times, and was wrecked, according to Assistant United States Attorney John Hilly, in charge of the case.

Edward D. Pickell, 18, of Long Beach, Calif., and his brother, Jack Rex Pickell, 16, of Cleveland, O., are named in the indictment. Hilly believes that they were bound for California at the time of their arrest.

On June 11, Hilly stated, they

South of Isdud, however, the Jewish settlement of Negba was battered by artillery and air attack. Jews evacuated the isolated settlement of Kfar Darom, the Tel Aviv spokesman admitted. The Egyptians claimed capture of Kfar Darom last night. Arabs also recaptured Beit Alfa in the same area.

Tel Aviv was bombed again today by two unidentified Spitfires. A Jewish communiqué said there were no casualties.

Senator Lucas Slated as Truman's Running Mate

By JACK BELL

Philadelphia, July 10 (AP)—Senator Scott Lucas (D-III.) was reported today to have the inside as President Truman's running mate on the 1948 Democratic ticket.

Although Lucas himself said he isn't a candidate, an associate of Mr. Truman said that unless plans are changed within the next 48 hours the tall, bronzed Illinois senator may be the White House choice for second man on the ticket.

Lucas, who voted for the Taft-Hartley act but in favor of sustaining Mr. Truman's veto of the labor law, was described in administration circles here as a "logical" candidate to join the President in expected major attacks on the record of Congress. But White House aides emphasized that no final decision on the vice presidential nominee has been made.

An assistant Democratic leader of the Senate, Lucas has kept his record of supporting the President's proposals about as clean as any of the eligible vice presidential possibilities such as Senator Theodore Green, of Rhode Island. Green is counted out only because of his advanced age.

Lucas also could be expected to help bring within the Democratic fold the highly doubtful state of Illinois, where Jacob M. Arvey, Chicago Democratic leader, only yesterday was finally converted to the Truman cause.

Hays Says Americans Have No Intention of Submitting

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, July 10 (AP)—American officials expressed hope today that Moscow will yield to western power arguments and warnings and lift the Russian blockade of Berlin.

If the Soviets do not give way, the only alternative course seen by diplomats here is for the United States, Britain and France to take the case before the United Nations in an effort to force Russia by legal means to give them free access to the city.

The arguments and warnings of the western powers were made public last night. Washington, London and Paris released the texts of similar notes which they had sent to Russia on the Berlin situation last Tuesday.

These notes advised the Soviet government directly for the first time that the three powers consider that (a) they are in Berlin by right, (b) they have the right of free access to the city and (c) they will not be forced out by threats or pressure.

In the words of the American note, which Secretary of State Marshall signed, the United States Government "declares that it will not be induced by threats, pressure of other action to abandon these rights." Marshall then added:

"It is hoped that the Soviet government entertains no doubts whatsoever on this point. . . . With some differences in wording, the British and French took the same line.

Together with the Americans they also offered to negotiate outstanding disputes between east and west in Berlin but demanded that the blockade be lifted first. Marshall insisted that this be done without delay.

Implication of Appeal
Throughout all three notes ran the implication of an appeal to the United Nations unless the Russians were willing to put an end to a situation which Marshall described as "intolerable."

The western powers are now feeding 2,400,000 people in the western sectors of the city with supplies brought in by air transport. The blockade has been in force three weeks.

A specific reference to the United Nations appeared in the American note. Marshall appealed to the Soviets to join in a peaceful settlement of the Berlin differences in line with Article 33 of the U. N. Charter. This article not only calls for peaceful settlement methods among U. N. members but also empowers the Security Council to direct them to use such methods whenever it deems necessary.

No policy decisions have been made on the U. N. appeal, however, and pending some answer or responsive action by the Soviets none is likely to be made.

Moscow up to early today had not a word to say about the three-power notes.

But shortly before the notes were made public, the Soviet-licensed news agency A.D.N. announced in Berlin that the Russians would permit Allied commercial traffic into and out of Berlin provided the vehicles carry special Soviet travel permits.

While this would ease the current highway blockade against Berlin-bound traffic, it would clamp new restrictions on west-bound traffic. The A.D.N. announcement made no mention of the Russian tie-up of rail transportation into Berlin.

Will Not Submit
(In Berlin, Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, U. S. deputy military governor, said the Americans have "no intention of submitting" to the new Russian restrictions. When the A.D.N. announcement was read to him over the telephone, Hays declared:

"There is no change in our attitude regarding access to Berlin. We don't intend to submit to any new restrictions. We have the

Basement Shower

Put a shower stall in the basement. It's a great convenience for the homeowner when he comes in after tinkering with the car or mowing the lawn. Board walls can be thrown up inexpensively, and an adequately-trapped drain can be installed.

Triple Mirror

A relatively inexpensive luxury which will be appreciated by every member of the family is a clever arrangement of two doors which open into a triple mirror such as is found in clothing stores. Against the rear wall is a stationary full-sized mirror. Two doors, folding snugly against it, each have full-size mirrors on their inside surfaces, so that when opened the combination forms a triple mirror. The two movable doors can be set at any angle to give the proper reflection desired.

Spacious House Has Cape Cod Character

Design Retains the Simplicity and Charm of Traditional Style While Providing Large Rooms and Ample Storage Facilities

Although compactness is one of the characteristics of the style, a Cape Cod cottage need not be small. Proof of this is found in "The Hilton," a design by "Home of the Week" Plan Service, which retains all the simplicity and charm of the traditional Cape Cod home but has rooms as large and storage facilities as ample as those in many full two-story dwellings which to the eye might appear much larger.

The outside dimensions of this house are 34x30 feet, not including the semi-attached garage and screened piazza at the side. Obviously, a wide lot site is required to show off such a dwelling to advantage. The cubage of the house is 28,000 feet, with an additional cubage of 3000 for the garage and tool room which is an integral part of the garage wing.

Has Good Balance

Good balance marks the exterior of the house. A delicate frieze just under the cornice is in keeping, decoratively, with the well-designed central doorway. The clapboarded walls are painted white, with a green asphalt shingled roof and green shutters for color accent.

The central entrance door with glazed top panel is a stock Colonial design. This opens on a small entry hall which has a coat closet, beside the stairway to the second floor. The living room opens off this hall at the left, the dining room, at the right.

Floor measurements of 17.6x14 feet make the living room unusually spacious. It is well lighted by three windows and a French door opening on the piazza at the side of the house. Centred in one inside wall is a Colonial fireplace with built-in book cupboard at one side.

A door at the left of the fireplace, balancing that to the front hall, gives access to an L-shaped rear hall connecting all rooms on the first floor and leading to a service entry from the breezeway or porch between house and garage. A storage closet and linen closet are contained in this hall and the stairway to the basement leads down from it.

Dining Room in Front of House

The dining room, 14x13 feet in floor space, shares with the living room the front part of the house. This room has two doors in its inner wall connecting with the hall corridor and the kitchen, just across this hall. Three windows provide plenty of light, yet leave ample wall space for a buffet, serving table, etc. A built-in china cabinet could be accommodated in the outside corner of the room.

On the rear of the first floor are the kitchen, a bath room with shower stall and a bedroom, 11x11 feet, with a large clothes closet. The kitchen, 10x11 feet in floor dimension, is well planned and includes a long L-shaped working counter with cabinets above and below it, a broom closet, built-in ironing board and two windows for cross lighting and ventilation. Three feet can be added to the depth of the kitchen in eliminating the hall space between dining room and kitchen and having the service entry open directly into the kitchen.

Hall Connects Rooms

A small L-shaped hall at the top of the stairs connects all rooms on the second floor. A good sized linen closet opens off the hall, adjacent to the bathroom. The latter has modern equipment, including a recessed tub with overhead shower.

The larger of the two upstairs bedrooms opens off the hall adjacent to the bathroom. There are two closets and four windows in this bedroom and built-in dresser space is provided under the eaves. The second upstairs bedroom, over the dining room and kitchen, measures 16x13 feet. It has only one clothes closet, but extra storage space, especially useful for trunks, luggage and the like, is available under the roof slant on the front of the house, reached by a door from the bedroom. Drawer space also is built under the eaves.

The entire roof area of a house of this type should be insulated and loaves provided in the gable ends for ventilation of the attic. Complete plans and specifications for this house, "The Hilton," the "Home of the Week" or any other design of this series are available at moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents, write to the Home Building Edition, The Kingston Daily Freeman, and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply.

(Released by the "Home of the Week" Plan Service)

Questions—Answers

Q. We have a home that we built just two years ago. Starting recently when someone walks on the floors they squeak. Can we get any satisfaction from the hardwood floor man at this late date, or is this caused by bad workmanship by the carpenters? If we can get no results from any of them, what steps can we take to cure the trouble? Why do they squeak?

A. Floors squeak from many causes, some of them as follows: No sub-flooring; infrequent nailing, nails not driven tightly into joists, joists too light. The squeak is caused usually by boards moving on nails. No one can tell what causes this particular floor to squeak without inspecting the construction. If the contractor is worth anything, and he is shown that the fault is his, he will make good.

Refinishing Attic

Q. Please give me information on how to finish off an attic. I am planning to do this work myself.

A. We do not offer a service of remodeling excepting to give general advice. In this connection we suggest the attic remodeling should be of such a type as to completely insulate the story below, and that it should be designed so as to avoid loads on the ceiling joists that might crack the plaster below. It should be observed that ceiling joists are often too light to take the floor loads that come from subsequent remodeling.

Modernizing Sink

Q. I have an old-fashioned sink with wooden boards on each side, and I want to cover them with something. What material would you suggest?

A. If the boards are not grooved, or if the grooves are not too deep, linoleum can be cemented on top to provide a good surface. The present drainboards should be scraped or planed to get an even surface and to remove that portion of the wood that may have become saturated with grease and soap. The linoleum should be cemented to the boards and bordered with a wooden or metal molding on all sides except that overhanging the sink.

Insulating Board Has Many Uses

Chemically Treated to Be Highly Resistant to Heat and Water

Home builders looking for something new—and at the same time economical—in the way of interior wall and ceiling finishes will find a ready answer to their problem in structural insulating board products. Available in a practically endless variety of surface textures, finishes and sizes, they have opened an entirely new field of interior treatments and designs.

Insulating board is manufactured of wood or cane fiber, felted and chemically treated to be highly resistant to water and heat. Used as an interior finish it is not only adaptable to practically any decorative scheme, but it serves as heat and "cold" insulation, acoustical correction and noise quieting.

Many Products Adaptable

Products adaptable to interiors include not only large size building boards but plank and tile which have been specially designed for the purpose. The large boards may be V-grooved, beveled or curved in various attractive designs. Modern period panellings may be added from mouldings of insulation board, wood or metal.

The tile and plank usually are fabricated from the building board, cut to a variety of sizes. The tile is used primarily for ceilings. Because it is available with squares and rectangles, it can be used in a wide range of patterns, such as herringbone, basketweave, plaid, rectangular and ashlar.

The plank is used mainly for wall treatment and the various widths available make it possible to obtain regular or random plank effects. It may be applied either vertically or horizontally. The appearance of greater height is obtained from vertical lines. Horizontal lines emphasize length and width.

Well-Planned Closets Are Boon to Family

The clothes closet of the modern home makes life far easier and pleasanter for every member of the family.

In the average small home, a closet furnished with quilted satin and chromium is not necessary because simple, well-planned carpentry may produce equally gratifying results.

A closet to hold women's clothing should have hanging space ample to accommodate long evening and dinner gowns. A man's suits are short when hung and so shoe space may be provided under his clothing. Children and young people sometimes need storage space for their toys and other cherished possessions.

The closet should be planned as to proportion and interior finish before the house is completed.

Dark Walls Suggested

The use of a dark-colored paint on the walls behind bookcases tends to reduce the contrast between the color of the books and the back wall. It also harmonizes the appearance of rows of uneven books.

Cause of Poor Drafts

A common cause of poor chimney drafts and smoke-stained fireplaces is insufficient height of the chimney.

Even Pigeons Face Housing Shortage

Probably the only thing that could make two self-respecting pigeons build their nest overlooking a stuffed monkey is the housing shortage. The courageous birds made a home atop a tool box in the workshop of the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia. The monkey is part of a future exhibit.

Service Only Way By Which Paints May Be Judged

Because there is no such thing as a perfect paint—a product equaling in durability the surface to which it is applied, the home owner does not buy just gallons of paint, but actually years of paint decoration and paint protection.

Paint authorities agree that the value of a paint is determined by the years of service free from maintenance costs it provides the home owner.

The frequency with which a home should be painted depends on several factors, but both painters and builders advise against letting the surface of the material become exposed to the weather after paint has peeled or worn away. To preserve the exterior material, homes should be regularly repainted.

Wears By Chalking

There are many ways in which paint shows wear, but it is generally believed that the most desirable and normal way paint can yield to weather is through the process known as "chalking." When the vehicle of a paint "weathers," the pigment powders off in a gradual process, leaving the film smooth and still protective. Over a period of years the paint film thins, but satisfactory service and surface beauty are maintained during the life of the paint.

Some paints do not "weather" in a progressive process, but fail by cracking, peeling and washing away. Paint authorities say that this scaling is caused by inflexible films incapable of expanding and contracting with the surface as climatic conditions demand. Sometimes the paint washes away because certain pigments form soluble salts or have not sufficient affinity for linseed oil to form a firm, durable film.

50-Foot Lots Popular

The standard lot width for small detached houses in subdivisions having public sewer facilities is now almost universally 50 feet.

were asked to leave Atlantic City, N. J., on the grounds that they had no visible means of support. On the 12th, they entered an auto parked by an Egg Harbor businessman, who had left the ignition keys in the car. Hilly says, and drove to Haverstraw, N. Y. There they stole New York license plates which they substituted for the New Jersey ones, continued Hilly, and proceeded to Milton. The police who arrested them there turned them over to the F.B.I.

right to free access and we intend to get it."

"The American officer noted that the Russians had not notified the American Military Government officially of the new regulations."

The western powers, judged in the light of their messages to Moscow, are determined right now to make two points unmistakably clear to the Kremlin. These are that the Russians cannot force them out of Berlin by measures short of war nor can they be forced into an immediate new meeting of the Foreign Ministers Council to reopen the whole question of Germany's future.

State Department officials are reported to believe that if Premier Stalin and other high Soviet officials can be convinced on this score, the blockade will be lifted because the Russians will realize they cannot get what they want out of it. It is this line of reasoning which has given rise to hope for a favorable Russian reply.

On the other hand, the notes also revealed a weakness in the position of the western powers. The communications did not in any sense constitute ultimatums to the Kremlin. The reason for this presumably is that aside from an appeal to the United Nations, there is nothing else the western powers can do short of going to war. Evidently they do not plan any such step as that.

In support of position they had the right of free access to Berlin the British cited an arrangement worked out by Prime Minister Churchill with Premier Stalin in June, 1945, for the occupation of the city. The Americans reminded the Soviets of a similar arrangement made with Stalin by President Truman. Neither of these secret arrangements had ever been revealed publicly before.

Will Win by Default
Philadelphia, July 10 (AP)—It's all over now but the shouting, and even the shouting will be largely mechanical next week when the Democrats nominate Mr. Truman. In a very real way, that is an unfortunate position for the President. It would have been better if he had gained the nomination after a fight. To win it this way will be something like winning a tennis tournament because your opponent breaks a leg on the afternoon of the finals. In short, Mr. Truman will win by default.

Lists for Patrolmen Certified for Two Villages in County

Thomas Bohan, executive secretary of the Ulster County Department of Civil Service, announced today that the Ulster County Civil Service Commission has established eligible lists as of June 26 for police patrolman in the village of Ellenville and the village of Saugerties.

These lists were established as the result of an open competitive examination held May 8 last, at the county court house.

Harry M. Frischling, a veteran of World War 2, received a final average of 77.640 and was placed No. 1 on the eligible list for Ellenville. The board of trustees of Ellenville appointed Mr. Frischling to the position of police patrolman on June 28. Mr. Frischling will serve a probationary period of six months before he is eligible for a permanent appointment.

George T. Koeley, a veteran of World War 2, was placed No. 1 on the eligible list for the village of Saugerties with a final average of 78.960. LeRoy C. Woolhiser, also a World War 2 veteran was placed No. 2 on the list with a final average of 78.000. As of July 1, the Board of Trustees of the village of Saugerties appointed Mr. Koeley to the position of police patrolman. He will serve a probationary period of six months before he becomes eligible for permanent appointment. The Saugerties Board of Trustees has also given Mr. Woolhiser a temporary appointment as police patrolman for the vacation period.

Bushnellville Girl, 7, Hurt in Auto Mishap

Lynne Davison, 7, of Bushnellville suffered a very severe injury of the arm Friday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock in a most unusual accident. The little girl had been riding in the car of Thomas Chervany of Bushnellville and had just alighted from the rear of the car when she started across the highway back of the Chervany car. At the time a Ford car of Melvin J. Fairbairn of Shandaken, operated by Mrs. Ruth Fairbairn came along. Observing the girl run across the road, Mrs. Fairbairn pulled off to the right of the road in an effort to avoid the child. The car ran up on a bank and then tipped over on its left side.

At the instant the car tipped over the little girl fell to the pavement and the overturning car caught her arm, inflicting a very severe laceration. The arm was cut to the bone and after first aid had been given at the office of Dr. Maryanne Eisher of Phoenicia, the child was taken to Margaretville hospital for treatment and observation.

The accident was investigated by Trooper Ray Dunn of Phoenicia.

Find Weather Balloon

Friday afternoon while driving along the Ashokan boulevard a Mr. Steele of New York city, en route to Lanesville, observed a weather balloon which settled in a pine tree on the upper reservoir property. Trooper Ray Dunn of Phoenicia was notified and later with the aid of water works employees recovered the balloon which was found to be a weather balloon from the Albany Weather Bureau.

On the balloon a note was found which stated it should be sent postage free to Washington, D. C. The balloon was forwarded by Trooper Dunn.

July Services
During the month of July, the regular morning service of worship in the First Presbyterian Church, Elmdorf street and Tremper avenue, is being held at 10 o'clock on 11 o'clock. The service will last one hour. Featuring the service tomorrow will be a duet entitled, "Hark, Hark, My Soul" by Rockwell, to be sung by Mrs. Edwina Schultz Lawrence, alto, and Miss Joan Day, soprano, with Miss Edna Merriehew, organist and choir director, accompanying at the organ. The sermon subject of the minister, the Rev. William J. McVey, will be "The Issues of Life."

Burglary Charged
Eugene Langon, 17, Richard McComber, 17, of Lake Katrine and John A. Klonowski of 482 Wilbur avenue, Kingston, were arrested by Sergeant John Metzger of the state police Friday on a charge of burglary, third degree, alleged to have been committed on June 23 when a roadstead of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meeker of 55 Elizabeth street at Lake Katrine was entered. The trio was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Percy Bush of town of Ulster and held for grand jury action.

Roosevelt telephoned Eisenhower headquarters here and he finally is convinced that "General Eisenhower would not serve if nominated by the Democratic party."

Roosevelt, Hill, Pepper and others scheduled a conference to try to find a substitute. There seemed no likelihood, however, that they could agree on a man to oppose Mr. Truman and an anti-Truman meeting, set for tonight, appeared on the verge of collapse.

Leon Henderson, former price administrator was plugging Justice William O. Douglas, in behalf of the Americans for Democratic Action. He also had been for Eisenhower as were a number of state Democratic officials hurriedly scurrying back off that limb.

Even Henderson conceded that if Douglas who had no southern support—couldn't get at least 150 of the 1,234 convention votes, his candidacy wouldn't be pushed seriously.

It seemed more likely that by Wednesday, when the convention gets around to nominating a presidential candidate, Mr. Truman will be an almost unanimous walk-in.

reported drafting an answer to Count Folke Bernadotte's urgent appeal for a new 10-day cease fire, which he had hoped would begin this morning.

In Cairo Arab league sources said the Arab nations would remain silent on this. Secretary General Abdul Rahman Azzam Pasha of the seven-nation league told newsmen he received the U. N. mediator's appeal but the league political committee is no longer here and cannot act on it now.

Bernadotte left his Rhodes headquarters, en route to New York to lay the whole Palestine situation before the U. N. Security Council.

In Tel Aviv the Jewish government spokesman said the Israelis launched their attack on Lydda airport at midnight with a large column of armored vehicles and infantry. The airport is less than 15 miles southeast of Tel Aviv, just on the U. N.-proposed border between Jewish and Arab territory. It is Palestine's chief airport.

An unofficial source in Tel Aviv said the defending forces were mostly Iraqis. He said these, aided by Arab legionnaires stationed nearby, attempted a counterattack supported by one tank and six armored cars, but that the Israelis disabled all seven vehicles and the Arabs retreated, suffering casualties.

The airport and its hangars were found relatively undamaged, the spokesman said. It had been occupied by Arabs since May 15 when the British surrendered their mandate.

The Egyptian Defense Ministry last night said 325 Jewish soldiers were killed yesterday in the coastal plain area below Isdud.

The Cairo weekly Akhbar El Yom said Egyptian shells wiped out Kfar Darom in retaliation for an attempted attack from the settlement on King Farouk's party which visited the front five days ago. The paper said the Jewish attack on the royal party failed and none was hurt. Kfar Darom is in the Isdud area.

In Jerusalem Arab irregulars, supported by mortars and light artillery of the Trans-Jordan Legion, punched 50 yards into Jewish held territory of the new city's Mesrara quarter and occupied a large stone building a few yards from the St. George School, a dispatch from the Arab-held walled city said. A legion officer said the Jews left 25 dead in the building which they used as a gunpost.

Jewish mortars continued a steady drumming against the stone walls of the old city and Arab positions outside the walls. Legion mortars and howitzers replied but the big guns remained silent.

A delayed report from the Jewish held section said John J. Macdonald, new U.S. consul general, was fired on yesterday by a sniper but was unhurt.

Bernadotte took off from his Rhodes headquarters for Lake Success, N. Y., before receiving Arab or Jewish answers to his plea for a new cease fire. With him were his wife, the former Estelle Manville of New York, and several staff members.

"I hadn't expected to receive replies by this time," the count said. "With the utmost urgency," Bernadotte had proposed a new 10-day cease-fire to start this noon, Greenwich mean time (7 a. m., E.S.T.).

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 10, 1948

WHEN CARS CAN'T TAKE IT

One out of every six fatal accidents involves an automobile with some kind of a mechanical defect, according to late reports of the record-makers. Moreover, the proportion of defective cars has been steadily increasing since 1941, when it was only one in 12 or 13.

On the face of it, this kind of news is both discouraging and alarming. While we are in the midst of an all-out offensive against the fearful economic waste and personal tragedy of street and highway accidents, millions of automobiles limping along the roads are menaces to life and limb, regardless of whether their drivers are competent or not. With all the driving skill in the world and every faithful observance of rules of the road, a motorist is helpless when his steering wheel, brakes, or some other vital part of his car fails him in an emergency. He is helpless, and so are the pedestrians and other drivers in his path.

The hopeful side of the picture is that here we have to deal with mechanical failure alone—something far less elusive than human failure. It becomes human failure, too, only when the responsibility for proper car maintenance is left up to individual motorists and then neglected by them. To be on the safe side, that responsibility should be made a part of law.

If high standards of motor vehicle performance were required by statute and enforced by periodic inspections in every state of the Union, 5,000 lives might be saved in a single year.

Motorists owe it to their futures, their families and their fellow-men to become safe drivers. They owe it to their cars to keep them fit. For even the safest driver is no safer than his car.

FOOD FROM THE SEA

The sea may eventually produce all the world's food, say University of California scientists. This does not mean that our diet will be confined to fish, oysters and clams. Single-celled plants or algae can now, the Californians believe as a result of their researches, be trained to produce any form of food, proteins, sugars or fats, in edible form. Whether the water in which they grow is fresh or salt makes no difference. This would make a great deal of the world's farming quite unnecessary.

Thus truth lags a long way behind fiction. In 1870 the French scientific romancer, Jules Verne, wrote "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea". His hero, Captain Nemo, had perfected a submarine in which he could go under water in any ocean from the Antarctic to the Arctic. All his food came from the sea. Various sea animals and plants even gave him products indistinguishable from the common food meats. His wines and liquors came from undersea plants. He even smoked underwater cigars, and found them equal to the best Havanas. Now all this bids fair to come about, the professors hint.

The cynic will think of one catch. If our grain producers and cattle raisers find their sales falling off through the competition of sea-grown food, they will, if past history offers any guide, demand a prohibitive tariff or other legislation to keep the rival food-stuffs out.

IMPORTANT JOBS

With the grade school population at its peak, the number of teachers who are willing to take over the guidance of the small fry is far too small, according to the results of a recent survey conducted by the Office of Education.

The number of new teachers this year is only a few thousand less than those who finished training in 1941, but most of these are slated for high school work. There are plenty of high school teachers now available in most branches, some showing a surplus. Home economics are still in short supply.

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

AND SO PASSES A CENTURY

We were gathered in the simple Congregational Church in Lee, Mass., to bid farewell to Frank Pease, the local druggist, whose father before him had run the same store since 1860. I turned to Edward Rogers, the president of the Lee Savings Bank, himself well up in his eighties, to say how sorry I was that my old friend had passed on, but Rogers replied:

"I suppose it will make no difference a century from now."

These men who pass three score and ten and even four score speak the word, century; almost with intimacy. And as they see their little group go, one by one, they grow hardened to the inevitable. I well remember that little group that gathered in the back room of Pease's drugstore 15 years ago when I first came to these mountains to summer.

There was Judge O'Brien, garbed in the dress of a Dickens character, a master politician who manipulated the local vote, and Judge Cassidy, who presided over the local court and practiced law on the side and knew everybody's history and character for miles about and meted out justice with kindness. There was Frank Pease himself, a Yankee of old stock, with a capacity for friendship rare anywhere. There was Edward Rogers, who had been a newspaperman and became a banker and quoted poetry and told stories and knew the lore of every village and town in this region and most of their inhabitants. And there were others. Of all this company, only two octogenarians remain to see the new generation spill so swiftly what their forebears labored so valiantly to create.

For these men came out of the Civil War generation. They had grown up with the country. They had fought the battles over the tariff, and hard and soft money, monopolies and trusts in that back room. They had witnessed the passing of the Yankee and the influx of new peoples, Irish, Italian, Pole and Jew, into their communities. They had watched the railroad grow and decline and had known a different life before the automobile changed everything. They knew the time when Americans spoke of freedom lovingly and no one mentioned the word, slavery.

They had known many Presidents. Lincoln was a household word with their parents and Garfield and Cleveland summered in these parts. When they think of Roosevelt, it is Theodore they have in mind rather than Franklin, who belongs to our rather than to their generation.

Their recital periods of prosperity and depression, the ups and downs of a free economic system without too much concern, for they can recount how in all troubled times the energetic and flexible survived and built while the laggard and complainer tried to live on other people's money. And they say that the same kind of people failed in the last depression as failed in all others. And that the same kind of people succeeded in the last.

Hard-headed were these men I used to meet in the back room of Pease's drugstore; yet they were controlled by a strong sense of morality. They were tolerant of error but not of bad intent; they hated no one, but measured character with uncanny accuracy.

I recall a merchant coming to these parts to set up a store. He seemed modest and lively and all out for success. But the backroom philosophers decided that he was not a valuable addition to the community. He, according to their judgment, lacked that quality that they called character, and they said that he would not last. And he did not last, not because they said so but because he did not last.

It has been a wonderful experience to know and have the friendship of these old Americans. There must be men like them in such a city as New York, but there are no back room behind stores in New York—no cracker-barrel atmosphere, no big, pot-bellied stove, no peaceful leisure for talk, no roots that run back for two or three centuries in the same soil. These men lived through the greatest period of creative force in America. They were not concerned too much with Europe or Asia, nor even with the American continent. They lived in New England—and loved it.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

STOMACH OR INTESTINAL ULCER

An ambitious young man began to have a pain in his stomach regularly from two to three hours after eating food. He consulted a physician, who found that he had an ulcer.

The young man was put on a diet, which gave him considerable relief. In addition to following the special diet, he took alkaline powders to reduce the degree of acidity of the stomach (gastric) digestive juice.

He kept free of pain for nearly two years when an emotional disturbance occurred and his symptoms returned. As the X-ray showed the ulcer healed but blocking the passage of food from the stomach to the small intestine, allowing only fluids to pass, an operation was performed. As the patient was recovering from his operation, he told his physician that he would now be free of all his symptoms. He was greatly surprised when his physician told him that as he was an ulcer-bearing individual he might grow another ulcer.

What is the setup or makeup of the individual who is likely to grow an ulcer?

As a matter of fact, anybody may grow an ulcer of the stomach or small intestine. To obtain it, just send 5 cents, coin preferred, and a 3-cent stamp, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. It is known that ulcer is caused by too high a percentage of acid in the stomach juice, and that this acid actually burns a hole—ulcer—in the coats of the stomach. Should the hole go all the way through, it is called a perforated ulcer, which is a dangerous condition. It is this high-strung, nervous, emotional make-up that makes the stomach glands manufacture more acid juice than is manufactured by the calm or less emotional individual.

For the foregoing reasons it is recognized that delicate medical, dietary and surgical treatment, the patient must acquire calmness to prevent development of ulcer.

Most parents realize that no teacher is more important than the one who guides a child through the mazes of primary education. The child's attitude toward learning and toward teachers and schools is shaped at this time. A good grade school teacher is one of the most valuable forces in any community.

All Aboard for Philadelphia

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Philadelphia — When Dwight Eisenhower was a high-school boy in Abilene, Kansas, he used to play "Fly Lou," a game which consisted of putting pennies on the shady side of the street and waiting for a fly to light on one particular penny. When it did the owner took all the other pennies.

In playing "Fly Lou," Eisenhower and his pals were always alert to see that no boy put syrup on a coin to attract a fly, for, as young Dwight said: "A fly is smart but even a fly can be tempted."

Democratic leaders at Philadelphia will have to put plenty of syrup on their coin to tempt Eisenhower to fly their way. Whether his lights now or not, Dwight Eisenhower's name is going to be in the political headlines from now until 1952, so here is a further attempt to appraise the most spotlighted man in America.

Brass Hat or Civilian?

Biggest question asked about Eisenhower is how would he act once in the White House—as a civilian or as a brass hat?

It is always risky to take a military man into high civilian office, as Eisenhower himself pointed out. However, those who watched him closely during the war credited him with leaning over backward to protect civilian rights. He championed the G.I.—and most of them are now strong for him, though dead against MacArthur.

He gave a break to Negro troops and a chance to the heroic Japanese-Americans to redeem the false accusation of having sabotaged at Pearl Harbor.

Yet Eisenhower let such close friends as Gen. John ("Court House") Lee get away with commandeering a whole hotel for himself, plus some of the worst examples of caste system of the war.

In Europe after the war, he arrested 70,000 Nazis, gave strict orders to let no Nazi hold any important job—an order flagrantly violated since by the Forestral cabal. He also raised Cain with his own generals for their treatment of displaced persons.

Eisenhower's chief trouble has been that he has surrounded himself with an iron curtain of brass hats. Once you get inside, you find a great human being, but cracking the curtain is sometimes as difficult as penetrating the wall around Russia. And this has continued to be somewhat true even now that the general is at Columbia.

When it came to working with the Russians, Eisenhower got along as well as anybody—perhaps better. With Marshal Zhukoff, the Red Army commander in Berlin, he got along so famously that Moscow got suspicious and transferred the marshal. Zhukoff was too much under the spell of Ike's charm.

"Dealing with the Russians," Ike once explained, "is like dealing with your wife. You can lie to her once, or perhaps twice, but eventually she catches up with you. So you might as well tell the truth in the beginning."

Eisenhower's Mother When Sam Goldwyn, who planned to produce a picture on Eisenhower, congratulated the general's aged mother on her son, she promptly replied:

"Which one?"

She was just as proud of all her seven sons as she was of the one whose name is a byword round the world. In fact Ike's mother may be one important key to his character. She came of a Swiss-German family which fled Europe to escape its wars; so the last thing she wanted was to have her son become a professional soldier.

Perhaps this antipathy for war was inherited by Eisenhower, and that he really meant what he told the graduating class at West Point last year:

"War is mankind's most tragic and stupid folly," he said, "to seek or advise its deliberate provocation is a black crime against all men. Though you follow the trade of warrior you do so in the spirit of Washington—not of Ghenghis Khan."

do not inherit a greater share than your citizen brothers of courage, endurance and fortitude. Neither does your commission confer upon you distinctive right or privilege....The arts and sciences, as well as the professions of arms, are bulwarks of security. And the greatest of all is the spirit—the will—for freedom and justice."

Eisenhower's Chief Achievement

There are also those who deride Eisenhower for failure to support General Patton, during his lightning advance through France. The Patton diary is supposed to claim that if the gasoline allotted to Field Marshal Montgomery and his slow-moving British army had gone to Patton the war would have been finished four months earlier.

That will be a point for future students of military strategy to decide. But the over-all fact is that in one of the greatest campaigns in history, Eisenhower commanded a miraculously smooth-running machine, operated on a schedule, kept a dozen or so jealous nationalities under his reasonably happy, broke through the famous Nazi wall which Churchill claimed could not be broken, and won a war sooner than anyone expected.

To do this—whatever his human weakness—required genius, foresight and great executive ability. It required the kind of ability that the nation may need now, when during the next two to four years we face the most difficult period of peacetime stress and strain in recent history.

If the nation needs to draft men into the army for the psychological effect upon Russia, as Eisenhower has informed Congress, then so, too, it needs a leader at the helm whose prestige, experience and background will have a psychological effect even more important.

So They Say...

Anyone can talk peace. But only the work that is done for peace really counts.

—President Truman.

The world situation today is exceedingly tense and contains a menace to the freedom of the people of the United States.

—Rep. J. W. Wadsworth (R.) of New York speaking in favor of the draft.

My own position has always been that I have nothing to conceal and if I have omitted to tell anything about myself it was either because I thought it was irrelevant or because I could not find anybody willing to listen.

—Dr. Edward Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards, discussing his recent investigation by Congress.

If any joker thinks the Americans, British, and French are going to be dealt out of Berlin he has got another guess coming.

—Col. Frank Howley, U. S. representative on Kommandatura.

Under the U. N. month-long truce the Jews are the gainers and the Arabs are the losers. There should be a plebiscite where citizens—irrespective of race or religion—will express their desire for a future government.

—Jamal El Hussini, spokesman for the Palestine Arabs.

Malden-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman:

July, 1776-July, 1948

The greatest document ever written A.C. was born in Philadelphia in 1776. The composers and signers of the Declaration of Independence were true Americans, honest men without selfish desires, who had the interest of their country at heart. They were motivated by the repeated tyrannical injuries and usurpations suffered at the hands of the king of Great Britain when they said: "But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and provide new guards for their future security."

Again in Philadelphia, in May, 1787, the Constitution of the United States of America was born as the outgrowth of a convention of delegates from the different states. It was so well framed that it has served as the basis for this government for over a century and a half and many of its principles have been adopted by other countries. These two Philadelphia conventions will always remain the pride of every true American and will enjoy the respect of every true citizen of the world.

This July, in the year of our Lord 1948, another convention takes place in Philadelphia. It is held by the present so-called Democratic party; not to throw off the shackles of a foreign king but to praise and uphold the injuries and usurpations of a domestic king—the New Deal. In this July convention we will find no John Hancock, Benjamin Franklin or Samuel Adams, but we will find the real and official members of the old New Deal King's family, as well as the President, Tammany, Hague boys and consorts. We shall hear again, again and again the praise of the historical betrayals cleverly and dictatorially performed on the American people and the peoples of the world.

They are an utterly confused company, determined to hold on to their political bread baskets, regardless of America's plight. They will shout the names of Jefferson and Jackson, of Wilson and F. D. Roosevelt. They will bow their heads in memory of the latter's death on April 12, 1945, which happens to be the same day when our heroic boys under the gallant leadership of General Patton and other commanders crossed the Elbe river and were only 50 miles from their goal of victory—Berlin. It is the very same day when our boys were ordered by the high command not only to halt but even to retreat, so that the Russians could leisurely take Berlin on May 2, 1945. May the delegates hang their heads in shame in memory of that day.

That historic betrayal should not only be remembered by our wounded soldiers, the men who reached Berlin with their bones intact, the fathers and mothers who had been assured again, again and again by the greatest radio artist of our time, but by every American. The unquestionably great military genius like Eisenhower carried out his orders by stopping the march on Berlin. He could not have done so without Truman's O. K. and Truman could not have done it without Eisenhower's obedience. Both were following the secret betrayal of Yalta.

Now, this convention wants to reward either one of these men with the Presidency of these United States. What a mockery. What an insult to the American People. What a disgrace to the Convention Hall of Philadelphia. Take one look at their doings—the powder keg of Berlin. No, they have not kept faith. The whole world in general, America in particular and our brave soldiers especially, whether dead, wounded or alive have been unforgivably betrayed.

Therefore, I ask you to please re-read the above mentioned paragraph of the Declaration of Independence; substitute the word "government" with the word "democratic party"—and—our duties are clear. Throw out the monkeys and donkeys, the Wallace'd ballast and elect Dewey for President, a Republican Senate and Congress, and let's have worthy Republican officials in every city, town and hamlet in every corner of our beloved country. Despotism power always digs its own grave—hated dies of its own generation, and after every night comes a golden morning. Raise aloft the banner of true Americanism. Lincoln, Teddy Roosevelt, Thomas E. Dewey.

So many businessmen play tournament bridge today that it is not unusual to walk into a store or office and find an argument going on over the last evening's hands. Jon Sanford, who is associated with the card game, is very popular among tournament players. When the boys drop in to buy a new tie or shirt, they naturally get into a discussion of hands.

In connection with today's hand, Sanford justified his seven-trump bid by saying, "It was the last hand of the game, and I knew I had to get all the points to win." However, at rubber bridge I do not think he would win.

East made the natural opening of the king of hearts. If the queen of hearts had been opened, Sanford thinks he would have been on the spot. But when he saw the king of hearts, he felt sure he was going to make the contract. He did it, and he was right.

Sanford won the king of hearts, then laid down two out of three diamond tricks and six club tricks. This left him with the ace and queen of spades; and in dummy the six of spades and jack of hearts. Reasoning that East was down to the blank king of spades and king of hearts, Sanford led dummy's spade and won up with the ace, caught the king and the queen of spades was good for the 13th trick.

Three Candidates Now

New York, July 10 (AP)—The intra-party struggle over the Democratic nomination for New York county surrogate was a three-way contest today. The three contenders entered the fray yesterday, shortly after a grand jury reported that bribery had figured in Tammany Hall's selection of General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente as its candidate. The new entry into the primary race was City Court Chief Justice John B. Sweeney, who said he was offering his name because of the "confused and demoralized situation" among Democrats in picking a candidate. Opposing him and Valente is City Council President Vincent R. Impellitteri, who has the backing of Mayor William O'Dwyer and Tammany Chieftrain Frank Sampson.

Dohn, president of the Reno Ministerial Association, promptly announced that organization would go before the City Council next Monday to seek an ordinance banning prostitution.

Oppose Merit Rating In Firing Teachers' Pay

Cleveland, July 10 (AP)—Teachers' pay raises should be based only on training and experience because merit rating systems are unreliable and harmful to professional morale, a majority of National Education Association convention delegates agreed.

By a vote of 593 to 333, the delegates yesterday adopted a resolution by Morris Hamburg of Hempstead, N. Y., opposing merit rating systems as subjective and invalid methods of evaluating a teacher's worth for pay purposes.

Supporters of the resolution claimed it protected teachers from unfair discrimination based on personal opinions. The sizeable opposition felt impartial yardsticks for teaching competence have and can be perfected to go beyond the "professional preparation and successful experience" which the resolution said were the only just basis for salary differentials.

As the five-day meeting of 3,500 delegates from every state and territory drew toward its close last night, a budget of $2,084,450 was approved for N.E.A. in the 1948-49 year, compared with $1,393,747 in the previous year. Earlier convention action raising dues from $3 to $5 a year assured a hike of about $900,000 in revenue.

Glen W. Moon, Stamford, Conn., was one of eleven vice presidents named.

Food Conservation Office Terminated

Captain Hickey, Local Chairman, Is Notified by Department

Captain A. S. Hickey, chairman of the Citizens Food Committee in Ulster county, has received the following communication from Charles F. Brannan, secretary, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.:

The Department of Agriculture is grateful for the excellent cooperation the state and local citizens Food Committees have given in the field of food and feed conservation since they were organized last October to aid in meeting a challenging world situation. Now that the most critical period for which this program was organized has passed, it has been decided to terminate the Office for Food and Feed Conservation, effective June 30.

This action does not mean that you should relax your efforts to encourage the voluntary management of our food resources as a means of conserving food and feed and resisting inflation in the cost of living. It means, however, that the responsibility rests more than ever with private citizens.

You are urged, therefore, to continue to support food conservation to the fullest possible extent in your circles of influence. We know also that you will stand ready, if called upon, to aid your government in the future.

Get Railroads Back

Washington, July 10 (AP)—The nation's railroads were back under private management today after the first and last railroad strike. Seized May 10 by order of President Truman to thwart an impending strike, the carriers were turned back to the owners yesterday afternoon. The action followed by a day the settlement of a wage dispute between the carriers which had led to government seizure. The roads had been placed under nominal army control during the period of government seizure.

Careful Use Required

Experiments show that indiscriminate use of DDT may not only kill off the insects, both good and bad, but the birds and fish that feed on the poisoned insects.

Moth eggs do not lie dormant during the cold months and hatch in the spring.

League Leading Port Chester Nine Here; Ceremonies Precede Contest

Organized baseball returns to Kingston tonight when the Kingston Colonials battle the league-leading Port Chester Clippers at the Kingston Colonial stadium at 8:45 o'clock.

Climaxing three days of whirlwind activity featuring the demise of the semi-pro Colonials and the sudden transfer of the New Brunswick, N. J. franchise to this city, the entire to Class B ball is expected to be relished by at least 2,000 spectators.

President John Scalzi of the Colonial circuit will attend the game. The league president co-operated to transfer a Port Chester game here in order to give Kingston an early start in the six-team circuit.

Mayor To Welcome Team
Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk will make the address of welcome and the individual players of the team will be introduced to the fans before the contest.

Early pace setters in the league the Colonials embark on their new baseball adventure in fifth place, nine games off the pace, but with a reputation as a young, hustling club. The Colonials is the youngest in the loop.

In addition to three outstanding performers in player-manager Eddie Kobesky, the league's leading batsman; second baseman Jimmy McNamara and catcher Herb Goldsmith, the Colonials boast one of the three Negro players in Scalzi's loop, Bob Turner, a right fielder who was a varsity player at New York University.

Port Chester has a red hot ball club that was stopped last night after reeling off eight straight victories but still retaining a percentage point lead over the second place Poughkeepsie Chiefs.

The Kingston franchise led the league for nearly two weeks after the campaign got under way but injuries to key players and disappointing attendance at home games had a depressing effect on the squad.

Owner Ted Laviano, who has transferred a share in the club's stock to Colonial City Baseball Inc. promised topnotch replacements to strengthen the team if the Kingston baseball public demonstrates a willingness to support the venture.

Three Star Players
Aside from the pitching staff, three members of the Colonial squad merit all-league rating.

Player-manager Eddie Kobesky, who plays first base, was leading the circuit with a thumping .308 average that included 8 homers, 12 doubles and three triples. Bob Turner, one of the three Negro players in the Colonial loop, plays right field and is regarded as the fastest man in the circuit. He is an ex-N.Y.U. varsity player who quit college to go into organized ball.

Another pair of standouts are Herb Goldsmith, a leftfielder who is being eyed by several major league clubs and Joe McNamara, 18-year-old youngster who is regarded as the top second baseman.

Petty Ace Hurler
Laviano said that he can secure a couple of other players, including Eddie Bukon, who played wartime first base for the Washington Senators.

Although Ernie Egle has the best won and loss record among the pitchers, league experts regard Harry Petty as the Colonials' most effective finger. Included in his six victories are two wins over the second place Poughkeepsie Chiefs.

The Colonials are the youngest team in the B loop but have been hit by injuries to key players and the discouraging atmosphere of empty home parks. Despite their lovely position in the standings they are serious contenders for a berth in the playoffs.

Demon Hanover Moves Up as Goshen Choice

Goshen, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—Demon Hanover, the Connecticut trotting Yankee, left no doubts today that he is the colt to beat in the $60,000 Hambletonian here next month.

Harrison Hoyt's three-year-old future book favorite for the August 11 Sulley Derby broke his gait and finished tenth to Judge Moore in the first heat of the William K. Dickinson Memorial Trot at Hialeah Park yesterday, then came back to win the next two impressively.

Eight Hambletonian eligibles were in the star-studded field of 11 starters.

Major League Roundup

By The Associated Press

By JACK HAND

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Half way through the pennant race, the amazing Philadelphia Athletics continue to dog the footsteps of the front-running Cleveland Indians.

Instead of folding their pennant ambitions and settling for an expected comfortable berth on the fringe of the first division, Connie Mack's underrated A's insist on eyeing that World Series every day. It becomes tougher to say they're wrong.

Once again the Cleveland Tribe has to line up a friendly array of percentage points to protect its shrinking American League lead.

The A's have won three more than the Indians but they've also lost three more. Consequently they remain 10 points back with exactly half of the 154-game schedule still ahead.

They did it the hard way last night, coming from behind twice to outlast the slugging Boston Red Sox 8-7.

Long before this final result had been posted, the A's knew that Cleveland had been thumped by St. Louis, 5-3, a seventh loss for Bob Lemon who has won 12 games.

Satchel Paige, famous Negro pitcher, made his big league debut on relief for Cleveland, working two shutout innings in which he allowed two singles and struck out one batter.

New York also moved up on the Tribe by a 9-0 romp over Washington. Eddie Lopat lived up to his rep as a "hot weather" pitcher with a four-hit shutout.

Detroit capped its fifth in a row, downing Chicago, 4-2. Freddie Hutchinson earned his fifth win with a six-hit effort, losing a game in the ninth when Aaron Robinson homered with one on.

Shortly after learning that second baseman Eddie Stanky would be out of action with a broken right ankle until mid-September, the Boston Braves overpowered Philadelphia, 13-2. Alvin Dark hit a 14-run assault, Johnny Sain became the first National League pitcher to win 11 games.

The Braves opened up a 3½ game lead on the Pittsburgh Pirates who bowed to Chicago, 2-1, in the majors' only day game.

Rex Barney of Brooklyn reeled off his second winning effort in succession, fanning New York with four hits, 4-3 before 50,819 customers in the Polo Grounds. This was the largest National League crowd of the year.

The Dodgers regained fifth place, only a half game behind the Giants.

The Armageddon at Hand:

For the second time in 14 months the welcome mat rolls out for organized ball. The vagaries of baseball fortunes in Kingston are such that today a semi-pro club folds up and tomorrow organized ball returns.

We have written literally thousands of words in an attempt to analyze the failure of the 1947 Dodgers. We trust no such eventuality will be necessary this time.

Personally, we felt the Colonials were a good ball club despite their 3-6 record. If we were to seek the most direct result of their failure we would have to say it was excessive overhead. Two crowds of better than 1500 turned out for Saturday games proving that the fan potential is still here. That the semi-pros barely cleared expenses on those 1500 gates is prima facie evidence that the setup was overburdened with expenses.

The Change They Wanted:

There were numerous complaints about the club, the umpires at extra but they are part of baseball and will exist as long as baseball exists. We doubt seriously if this town has seen many better pitchers than Gus Makiel, Warren Miller or a better hitter than Fred Price. But the growing apathy of the spectators forced the hand of Colonial City Baseball, Inc.

If the fans were sincere in their desire for a change, this is it. Here is a franchise in Class B baseball with a natural geographical and traditional rival in Poughkeepsie, home of that marvelous screwball, Billy "The Kid" Ostrom.

Harmony Is Needed Badly:

Let us lay the cards on the table for this one last time as baseball is on trial for what could be the Armageddon. Class B baseball can succeed and survive if the fans of the city forget their petty jealousies, pique, prejudices, and take baseball for what it is. We don't represent in the American way of life. If those fans who were dissatisfied with the semi-pros come out; if those fans who were loyal supporters of the 1947 Dodgers but avoided the semi-pros like a plague come out; if the thousands of fans who like baseball for baseball's sake come out then the new operation has a chance to survive.

Baseball will be ground into the dust in Kingston if rival groups persist in throwing their weight against each other. It will perish if the city is to become an armed camp between the organized ball advocates and the anti-organized ball following. The happy medium must be found.

This Is No "Outside Promotion"

We like baseball. It doesn't matter whether it's semi-pro or organized ball. Our responsibilities and interest in both are identical. We have supported both and The Freeman has given space generously to both types. We have treated baseball with a dispassionate approach. The fans must do the same.

The Colonials of the Class B Colonial League are not an "outside" promotion. Many prominent Kingstonians and baseball men have invested money and own a share of the franchise. They deserve a chance for an even break. Just as the City Baseball League must deserve the continued support of the baseball populace as the sole medium for the perpetuation of baseball.

All the old arguments have been answered. The Colonials are not run by "outside" people. Kingston has a B franchise. Many squawked that the D league of last year was not in keeping with the dignity of Kingston baseball tradition. It would seem to us the decision rests squarely with the baseball fans of Kingston. They will be judged harshly this time.

If, as it has been written, nothing succeeds like success, the reverse is also true. The bandwagon psychology when the going is good is matched by the panicky sinking-ship contagion in stormy weather. We shall know soon.

light-catching shimmer which only comes from clean shine.
If your hair is sun-dried or hard to manage try washing your locks with liquid shampoos which have a hair-conditioning action. Such shampoos are formulated to tame unruly locks.
If your hair is long, hold it back from the nape of the neck and back from the face and bind up from the nape of the neck and strands securely at the crown with a rubber band. Brush ends into loose curls. Garden flowers may be tucked into the topknot to conceal the rubber band; to accent summer freshness.
Is your hair short? Try the feathered cap style (right). For this one, part hair low on the side-finger-press a slight wave at the temple. Brush hair over the crown and forward to cover the crown. Fluff up just the tips to outline the smooth cap effect.
Another fetching style (center) which lends itself to long or short hair puts a smoothly curled bun over each ear. To copy, divide hair into two sections by means of a center part from front to back. Now, pull each section back behind the ear and bind with a rubber band. Brush ends forward and turn under to make a bun. Attach big ribbon bows to a bobby pin and slip over each rubber band.

Small Fry Vote for Shirtwaists

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Proof that the small fry are as shirtwaist-conscious as big Gibson Girls is the growing popularity of fancy blouses with the pig-tailed crowd.
Many of the befruffled and importantly-collared shirtwaist styles made for little Gibson Girls are duplicates of blouses which their moms and big sisters shove into their skirts.
For back-to-school wardrobes, the cotton shirtwaist wins the No. 1 popularity vote hands down. Although crisp cottons in ice cream parlor pastels are liked for their feminine, lace-trimmed look, the favorites are apt to be high-voltage plaids and stripes.
Starred in stripes by Judy Kent, designer who caters to small fry, is a blouse reminiscent of the shirtwaist style which dotted the campuses of ladies' finishing schools at the turn of the century. The appeal of this shirtwaist (right) of multiple-striped chambray is sharpened by important collars and cuffs of white pique.
Plaid cottons take strict tailoring or befruffled frons with equal grace. The blouse (left) of pink and black gingham goes all out for frons with a yoke of white pique doubled-ruffled with alternating rows of plaid gingham and white pique.

Massive Star

The star Betelgeuse, in the constellation Orion, is so huge that the whole orbit of the earth could be put inside it. Its density, however, is less than one-thousandth that of air.

CREEK LOCKS

Creek Locks, July 10—Dan Dugan and his sister, Mrs. J. McAnmney and children of East Orange, N. J., spent the week-end at their cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Van DeMark of Sidney Center spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fatum.

Mr. and Mrs. David Howland of Oneonta and their children, Joan and Jean, spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. W. Fatum. While here the Howlands entered a foxhound at the dog show in New Paltz. The entry won the blue ribbon first prize and also the maroon ribbon for the best hound in the show.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. O'Grady, returning from their recent wedding trip to Lake George, stopped to visit and spent the holidays with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Scanton of Brooklyn, and Creek Locks. Mrs. O'Grady is the former Miss Rita Meyer of Baldwin, L. I., who always spent her vacation here. She also is a former Rockette at Radio City Music Hall and until recently was with the cast at the Rocky Theatre where she had been appearing for the past five years.

Mrs. O'Grady also toured with Olsen and Johnson and the cast of "Hellzapoppin'."

Mr. O'Grady served in the army air corps for four and a half years. He is now with the Republican Aviation Corp. Mrs. O'Grady will teach at the Freeport Conservatory of Music and they will make their home in Baldwin, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Dugan have returned to Albany after spending the holidays with their mother, Mrs. Winifred Dugan.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Sparano of Brooklyn have purchased the Galitzky property and have taken possession.

Mrs. Ella Hahn has returned to her home here after spending two weeks in Detroit, Mich., visiting her son, Oscar, who is employed at the Ford automobile plant.

While in Detroit, she visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leim and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sheppard of Grosse Pointe, Mich. Mrs. Sheppard is the former Miss Gertrude Leim. She also visited the Yonnetti family who lives in Detroit. They formerly resided in Creek Locks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Muller and their children, Kenneth and Pat, are spending the summer at their cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Galitzky sold their property to Mr. and Mrs. A. Sparano of Brooklyn. The Galitzky family has purchased a home in Kingston.

Mrs. William Englemann of this place will celebrate her 91st birthday soon.

Now He'll Back Truman

New York, July 10 (AP)—Mayor William O'Dwyer is back in the Truman fold. He said yesterday he will support President Truman for the Democratic presidential nomination and that there was no doubt the president would get it.

For a week, the mayor has been in consultation with leaders from other parts of the country seeking a candidate other than Mr. Truman. The blunt withdrawal of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower from the presidential field apparently upset the plans of the group with which O'Dwyer was working.

Candidates to Meet

New York, July 10 (AP)—A friendly get-together of presidential candidates from opposing camps is possible here July 31. Both Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the G.O.P. White House contender, and President Truman, prospective choice of the Democrats, have announced they will attend ceremonies formally opening New York's new International Airport on that date.

Fashion Salutes Fall 1948

Fringed scarf-collar dramatizes plaid wool great coat.

Flaming red sleeveless dress does a solo act on black dress.

Regency look distinguishes fur-trimmed green wool suit.

New York (NEA) — The Look has settled down to stay for another season. It shows signs, however, of making ample concessions to the fall of exaggerated fullness.

Hemlines are as long, if not longer. With the exception of great coats, cocktail suits and billowing evening gowns, a lot of yardage seems to have been whittled out of the Look. The result, as seen in sneak previews of fall collections, is silhouettes tapered down to do a better job of tapering women's figures.

By EPSIE KINARD, NEA Fashion Editor

The something new that's been added to The Look is new detail. On dresses, the interest is focused on belts or sashes, neckline business, trick closings or unusual sleeve treatment. Sometimes one sleeve grabs the spotlight. Case in point is Anna Miller's slim-fitting black wool dress from which a lipstick red wool sleeve flashes from its somber background like an escaping flame. An heraldic motif of gold embroidery helps this sleeve to put on its brilliant solo act.

News in suits is the Edwardian or Regency look spiced by trimmings of Victorian flavor. Collars and bandings of velvet, braid or fur heaped up on suits with flared jackets and long tapering skirts make impressive exhibits of hand-some woens colored as brightly as a parakeet's plumage.

One outstanding suit of green virgin wool, for example, is intricately banded with black Persian lamb by designer George Carmel. Fur is dramatically manipulated in sections on the peplum of the jacket to create hipline emphasis.

The coat which adds a matching fringed stole to its sweeping silhouette makes this season's most dramatic topper. With an all-enveloping plaid great coat, designer Philip Mangone ensembles a long double-fringed stole scarf of matching wool. This type of full back, which looks untouched by whittling scissors, combines this fall's choicest colors—green, rust and brown.

Trapeze Girl Falls

Cliffside Park, N. J., July 10 (AP)—A girl acrobat who had promised her mother to quit the act last Saturday fell 110 feet from a broken trapeze in Palisades Amusement Park yesterday while 15,000 persons watched in unbelieving horror. Although she suffered a broken right ankle, a fractured left leg and a fractured pelvis, the girl, Miss Valentine Davis, 21, of New York city, said smiling from her Englewood Hospital bed: "I guess I was lucky wasn't I. But I'll never go up again—never. Doctors said she would be confined at least four months."

Beaches Must Pass Test

New York, July 10 (AP)—The famed bathing beaches around New York city have got to pass a health test. The Board of Health, noting recent studies indicating possible pollution of adjacent waters by city sewage, yesterday directed that beaches at Coney Island, Rockaway and others be classified as either (a) safe, (b) not recommended, (c) unsafe.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

WHEN BRIDEGROOM IS DIVORCED

That one young bride is upset is indicated plainly by her plaintive appeal. "Please come to my rescue! This is my first marriage and you can understand, I'm sure, that I'd like to have a traditional wedding in church and invite friends and relatives of both to the church and the reception at the country club. My fiancé, who has been divorced, seems to feel that it would be in bad taste because of his previous marriage, which was also big social event in this same town."

He can be right only if there was much unpleasant publicity in connection with his divorce. Otherwise, there is never criticism of the bride marrying for the first time wanting to have the kind of wedding you do—and, of course, in church if permission can be granted.

Guests Generally Stand Before Large Dinner

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend told me about a perfectly appointed formal dinner she and her husband went to lately. There was a huge living room with plenty of places for everyone to sit down. But she said people all stood. Very small cocktails were passed once and then everybody went in to dinner. She wondered why people didn't sit down. Is there some arbitrary rule requiring their standing up?

Answer: At a genuinely perfectly appointed formal dinner, following the precepts of yesterday, guests always stand while waiting the very short time before dinner is announced. Guests are expected to arrive on the stroke of the hour set and no one goes stands for long. As a matter of fact, cocktails, until recently, were seldom passed because they were believed to spoil the taste of the wines which followed at table.

Reporting "Social Doings" to Paper

Dear Mrs. Post: I've never made a practice of sending notices of my parties to the newspaper, because I always have been afraid of offending someone not invited. But I understand some people think it uncomplimentary to guests if the party is not written up.

Answer: On the contrary, except for the announcement of an engagement which is sent by the parents of the bride-to-be to the newspapers, it is in extremely bad taste on the part of a hostess to send press notices of her entertainment to the newspapers.

Mrs. Post's booklet, No. 501, "The Etiquette of Weddings," gives details for the ceremony and the reception. To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Not So Generous Now

New York, July 10 (AP)—The American public isn't as generous as it used to be. This is the conclusion of the National Stewardship Institute of the Golden Rule Foundation, which said yesterday that philanthropic gifts "have taken a decided downward path, and present indications are that they will fall far below last year's level which was less than $3,000,000,000."

Students Want 'Ike'

New York, July 10 (AP)—Ten students paraded last night in front of the Columbia University home of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower carrying placards which read: "Ike, you favor the draft, we favor it for you," "Ike, we marched for you, now run for us," and "Don't be a draft dodger."

Girls carried signs addressed to Mrs. Eisenhower reading: "They're drafting my fellow, how about your fellow?"

Bard Playhouse To Offer Gordon's Comedy, Years Ago

Annandale-on-Hudson, July 10.—The Bard College Playhouse will present, as the third production of its seven-week season, "Years Ago", Ruth Gordon's autobiographical comedy. There will be performances Tuesday evening, July 13, through Saturday evening, July 17, at 8:30 p. m. The school exhibition to be on view during this week will be the work of the Tish High School students.

Pamela Rivers heads the cast of this costume piece. Miss Rivers, in addition to being one of the featured players of the resident Equity company at the Bard Playhouse, also conducts a class in acting at the Bard Summer School of the Theatre.

Robinson Stone and Betty Lou Evans, also of the resident company, will portray the conservative Massachusetts parents of the girl who wanted more than anything else to go on the stage. Writing of her own early struggles to break away from home and become a "great actress", Ruth Gordon, who has since established herself as one of the first ladies of the theatre, has written a delightful play which Broadway praised many months ago. Among her other successes are "New York" and the Academy Award-winning motion picture, "A Double Life", which starred Ronald Coleman, and which Miss Gordon wrote in collaboration with her playwright husband, Carson Kressly.

"John Loves Mary", with Lew Dams, Pamela Rivers and Jared Reed, will conclude tonight. A special matinee was given this afternoon for the Marks Memorial (New York Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund) and Ward Manor campers. An act was prepared by the students of the Woodstock school is on exhibition this week.

Following "Years Ago", the Bard Playhouse will present the New York Critics' Circle Award-winner, "All My Sons", by Arthur Miller, which will open Tuesday evening, July 20.

New York, July 10 (AP)—Convicted of prostitution charges, a pretty, 27-year-old daughter of a U. No 'Brass' in His Hotel

New York, July 10 (AP)—A hotel owner who is not impressed by brass agreed to rent all the rooms in his hotel to enlisted men of the "Mittels" Field air force base. The hotel's public information division said yesterday that Corp. Charles G. Sattler, who works at the Lawrence Hotel in Rockaway Beach by night, has persuaded Joseph West to set aside all 51 rooms of his hotel to be rented to enlisted service men on a yearly basis. Officers, West figured, can shift for themselves.

The Legislature, a remarkable record of progress has been made in state government.
Generous State Aid
The upward spiral of prices and the decreasing value of the dollar made necessary this year a record budget of $812 million. However, 57 per cent of the state's budget, or $451 million, will be returned to localities as state-aid, thereby helping to cut local taxes by that amount.
State employees were again granted substantial increases in pay to help them meet the high costs of living.
Again this year, the state increased its appropriations for educational purposes by $56 million, making a total of $182 million which the state will pay in state-aid to education. The state will now pay to localities sufficient money to defray the total cost of the salary increases voted for teachers last year.
Teachers in New York state are now receiving by far the highest salaries and school districts the highest per pupil in state-aid of any state in the union.
The state also entirely supports 32 teachers colleges, technical schools and institutions of higher learning at a cost of $20 million annually.
During the year $3,200,000 was appropriated by the state for the school lunch program.
Greatest System
The Legislature also passed a series of bills creating a state university system, the second to none in the world. The bills also provide for a series of community colleges to be supported in part by the state, local governments and students' fees. Another bill is designed to eliminate racial and religious discrimination in the admission of students in the proposed state university and all public institutions, excepting sectarian institutions.
The Legislature also created 1,200 additional scholarships, primarily for veterans, which brings the total of state scholarships to 6,000. We also voted to continue the emergency colleges at Plattsburgh, Saratoga Springs and Utica.

Veterans Not Forgotten
During the year, approximately $500 million was paid out by the state in bonus payments to veterans of World War 2 as a token of appreciation by the people of this state to those who served their country in that war.
The merit rating law by which employers with a small labor turnover are given substantial rebates on their unemployment insurance assessments was amended by making an additional $80 million available for the state to pay rebates this year will amount to $160 million. Benefits payable to workers under unemployment insurance were raised from $21 to $26 per week.
Many other progressive measures were enacted into law in the fields of health, social welfare, housing, education, labor, veterans affairs and business for the benefit of the people of this state. This was all accomplished without raising state taxes.
And we still have on hand in cash and U. S. Government bonds an amount sufficient to finance the appropriations made from our state post-war construction fund, totaling more than $550 million, for the construction of state highways, hospitals, grade crossing eliminations and other needed public improvements and when such a construction program does not interfere with the supply of labor material now in short supply and needed by private industry.

The advances made in many fields and the accomplishments of your state government during the governorship of Tom Dewey have truly been remarkable. I am glad to have had a part, as your senator, in planning and executing such a splendid program for the benefit of the people of my district and of the entire state of New York.

Progress on Road, Bridge
I am glad to report, also, that rapid progress is being made in the construction of the 10½ miles of concrete pavement on the Ontario Trail from West Hurley to Boileville, and that funds have been allocated for the construction of route 52 from Ellenville to Woodbourne and that 2.28 miles of highway on the Lucas avenue turnpike are now under construction. Progress is also being made by test-drillings to determine the proper location of the proposed Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge and, when this determination is made, the State Highway Department will undertake studies and prepare a plan for a complete new arterial highway system for the city of Kingston.

In Ulster county, too, the Republican party during the past year has continued the good government for which it has been long noted.

Notwithstanding the increase in cost of government brought about by inflation, tax levies have been kept at a reasonable level.

The new highway bridge at West Shokan has been completed and plans are now ready for the new bridge at Accord.

The Board of Supervisors has appropriated $278,500 for the construction and improvement of county highways and is attempting to persuade the City of New York to reconstruct its dangerous and badly deteriorated highway known as Route 28 on the south side of the Ashokan Reservoir. This highway was provided by the City of New York to replace the then existing town and country highways destroyed and taken over when the reservoir was built. The City of New York has a moral and legal obligation to the residents of Ulster County to maintain Route 28-A so that the safety and convenience of motorists are preserved and protected. The Ulster County Board of Supervisors intends to do everything in its power to compel the City of New York to meet those obligations.

The interests of the people of Ulster county were further served during the past year by the installation in the county clerk's office of a machine to make photostatic copies of all deeds, mortgages and other documents filed therein.

Promoting Ulster Area

The publicity committee of the Board of Supervisors is continuing its splendid promotional program to advertise the scenic and recreational advantages of Ulster county and many thousands of visitors come to our county each year for rest and healthful and restful recreation.

During the past year, a contract was awarded by the Board of Supervisors for the construction in Kingston of the county tumor clinic, which will cost, when completed, about $315,000. I am glad to report to you that almost enough cash is on hand in the county treasury to pay for the construction of this splendid investment in human life and health.

I am proud of the fine Ulster county tuberculosis hospital, which was provided by a Republican Board of Supervisors. That fine institution and its efficient and faithful staff, have been responsible for greatly decreasing the incidence of the white plague in this county. Countless human lives have been saved not only by treatment but by preventing the spread of infection.

To Protect Public Health
I am likewise very proud that the Republican party is now building an institution which will serve the people of Ulster county in the fight against the deadly disease of cancer. In this tumor clinic will be utilized all modern scientific methods for the early diagnosis of cancer and for its treatment by deep X-ray, radium and, I hope, atomic energy. Working in close cooperation with the famous city laboratory, I hope that this institution will be in full operation during the coming year and will commence to save human lives and reduce human suffering and misery in this county. This tumor clinic will cost money to operate but I am sure that in such expenditures we will have the fullest approval and support of all citizens.

Since our last convention, as you know, the voters of Kingston returned the government of the City of Kingston to the management of the Republican party. We now have a Republican mayor and a Republican controlled common council.

The young mayor of Kingston, when he assumed office last January 1st, faced many grave problems. His Democratic predecessor left him with a deficit of $43,000.

This deficit greatly handicapped our present mayor in his attempt to prepare a balanced budget within the 2½ constitutional tax limit. He, also, was forced to furnish essential municipal services and paying for those services with a dollar that is now worth only 50 cents. The City's streets were in a deplorable condition and this, too, aggravated the problems of the newly elected mayor.

Our mayor, however, overcame many handicaps and presented a legal, balanced budget and has made substantial progress in a street construction program.

Considers City's Youth
Our mayor, in keeping with his campaign pledge, is restoring parks and playgrounds. He has greatly improved the athletic field, and through the cooperation of Monsignor Martin J. Drury, is building a playground on the property of St. Mary's Cemetery, to be known as the Second Ward playground, now occupied by the state's veterans' housing project. Through the cooperation of the Board of Education, he has also provided two baseball diamonds on the former Schuler property between Wall street and Washington avenue. He has other plans for improving the recreational facilities of the city in his efforts to provide wholesome recreation for the young and old of Kingston, thus making Kingston a better, happier, safer and healthier place in which to live.

Now let me say a word about the national political picture. I was privileged to have been a delegate to the National Republican Convention in Philadelphia a few weeks ago.

I was happy to have served in the cause which brought about the nomination by that convention of our great governor, Tom Dewey, as president of the United States, and the equally great governor of California, Earl Warren, as vice president.

We can be proud both as Americans and as Republicans of such a fine national ticket. Both men are great Americans, great public administrators and great political leaders. They are, both fearless, honest and competent.

Warns on Over-Confidence
Will both Republicans and Democrats predicting the overwhelming election, our only possible pitfall now is over-confidence. So, I say to you today, with all earnestness and sincerity: Take nothing for granted. As Republican party members you have a great responsibility to discharge. If you are in favor of freedom and liberty in our own country—if you wish to help restore these great and noble principles throughout the world—it is your patriotic duty as Americans and Republicans to work as faithfully and as diligently as you can for the election of this splendid Republican national ticket. Don't miss any opportunity to convince your friends and neighbors that this is no time for complacency or over-confidence.

The Democratic party is now rent asunder by differences in fundamental policies, it is torn with factional disputes and internal hatreds. A great political party in such a disorganized and chaotic condition is no longer able to govern.

U. S. in Danger
In these perilous times, government by such a party represents a constant hazard to the safety of America.

The present Democratic national administration has proved its utter incapacity to solve the grave problems which face us. Only a unified Republican party, working in order out of chaos in Washington, can save our country. There never was a time when

Traffic, Zoning Discussion Topic At Local Forum

Woodstock, July 10—While most of the talk and discussion on traffic was general, some important intersections and danger spots were emphasized at the Woodstock Forum meeting held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening when Corporal R. E. Van de Mark, Woodstock town supervisor, New York State Police, gave many interesting statistics and suggestions on this vital problem. The topic was Traffic and Zoning in Woodstock. On zoning, Supervisor Kenneth L. Wilson, and Justice of the Peace Fitzsimmons answered questions. Grant Elwyn, town clerk, took notes for future reference, by the Town Board.

It was pointed out by those taking part in the traffic discussion that the Mead Mountain Road is a most dangerous one in spot and that several bad accidents have occurred here. The Saugerties-West Hurley roads intersection was another location considered. There is a stop sign at the intersection and "Dropper Ray Dunn is most vigilant in seeing that the law is enforced. Needless to say, he cannot be there 24 hours a day and there are many who completely disregard the sign. About this, Supervisor Wilson stated that many of those arrested for traffic violations here state they did not see the sign. However, he said when they were arrested, it appeared that the sign was there. A request was made that something be done about the small island or obstruction in the road at the intersection in front of Stowell's. An explanation for this was that originally a blinker had been placed there and later removed but the rise in the road remains and is confusing to most drivers as they don't know whether to go over it, or on which side to go around it.

These and other locations will be investigated within the week when Mr. Cox, engineer, New York State Traffic Commission, and Corporal Van de Mark will come to Woodstock for this purpose. While in the community, they will consult with members of the Town Board, regarding the traffic situation. Suggestions regarding Woodstock traffic will be welcomed by the Town Board and if received prior to the contemplated visit, can be taken up at that time.

Requires Consent
Zoning, it was learned from Supervisor Wilson, is a very costly matter which requires the consent of the majority of residents in an entire town. He stated that it was not practical to zone sections but to zone the entire town. If zoning would have to be included in his opinion, the town of Woodstock is not ready for zoning. "First," said he, "let us get the necessities of water and sewerage, then go on to the luxuries. Zoning is a very fine thing but I am not sure it is practical for us at this time for we are really not ready. If everyone has an individual septic tank, we have no water system. If we get our fixed charges up, there is a question whether we could ever get the vital necessities."

To accomplish zoning, several steps are necessary. First, it must be shown by a substantial number of citizens that zoning is desired and that they are aware of the implications involved. If sufficient public sentiment were shown, the Town Board would be authorized to appoint a zoning commission consisting of different members, representative of different groups, empowered to hire competent help to make a study of zoning and planning and formulate a master plan. Piecemeal zoning was not advocated for the reason that it is apt to be upset in the courts since it has not proved to be successful and also because of the expense.

The master plan upon completion, a change in our national administration was so imperative. This is not political propaganda. This is the stark and honest truth. And this truth must be carried to every voter in this county who is interested in the welfare of the United States and the world.

So, I say to you again: Because victory on election day seems certain, this is no time to relax. This is no time to be over-confident. This is the time to set and to work and to continue to work that we must change our national administration this year without fail.

I am depending on all of you to work to that end. In conclusion, I also urge every one to work for the success of every Republican candidate nominated by this convention and for the congressional and senatorial conventions of the Republican party. Let's take nothing for granted. In politics, as in other activities of life, there is no substitute for hard work.

Only by working hard for the accomplishment of the desired goal can success be achieved. Reform to G.O.P. Record
The Republican party has rendered notable public service in past years to the people of the state of New York, of Ulster county and of the City of Kingston. The record of its accomplishments speaks for itself.

The genius of the Republican party for great public service must now be extended to the federal government in order to bring order out of chaos. This will be accomplished by the election of a Republican President and Vice President. Under their great leadership, supported by a unified and unified Republican party, the American way of life will be preserved in our country and the cause of liberty and freedom will be strengthened throughout the world.

Jones Dairy Wallops

West Shore Club, 12-0

Bock, Van Derzee Are Batting Aces

They made some changes in the West Shore lineup yesterday but the final results were the same in the City Baseball League at the Athletic Field.
Jones Dairy still nursing pennant designs rode roughshod over Pucker Davis' brigade, 12 to 0, for their fifth win in eight starts and a home field victory.
The Trainers suffered their seventh consecutive defeat as the Joneses pummeled Cy Brown for nine hits, including a double and triple by Charlie Bock.
Bock belted four home runs, including two singles, while Charlie Van Derzee had "3 for 3" in the leadoff slot.
Cy Brown, brother of Cy and third of the famous pitching family, scattered four hits effectively among four West Shore players. The Dairymen backed him with flawless support and Tex accounted for five assists.
Joneses opened business on a rush scale with a trio of markers in the second, five in the fourth and then topped off their day's work with three in the sixth. It was that simple and the impression is mounting that West Shore may yet set an all-time City League record by going through a season without a victory.

Deer Runs Into Rowland Auto

Friday evening while Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rowland and their son, John I. Rowland, were driving to Kingston from Stone Ridge, a large buck deer ran in front of their car. The deer was struck and thrown to the highway and a second car, traveling south, ran over the buck killing it instantly. John Rowland was operating his father's car at the time.

The buck was observed in a field and as the cars approached it made a dash to cross the road. The car which ran over the buck was operated by John P. Gorton, 203 Hackett street, Providence, R. I. Mr. Gorton is a lieutenant of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad police. A report of the accident was made to Sheriff Smith and Deputies William Frost and Anderson Ellsworth investigated.
